Introduction

As Washington Evaluators has grown over the past 36 years and the make-up of the organization's membership has changed, we recognize that the members' goals for the organization may also have evolved. Acknowledging the value of periodic review and goal-setting as critical elements of successful organizational management, the 2017-2020 Strategic Plan for Washington Evaluators aimed to guide the future actions of the Board of Directors. This plan was intended to ensure that the top priorities of our members guide the day-to-day operations of the Board and that the overarching goals drive future planning in the organization.

Strategic plans are not intended as static documents; rather this plan is a living roadmap that will require input and action of the entire organization's membership to be successful. Through the five years of this plan, the Board of Directors outlined annual actions that helped achieve the strategic goals and objectives (designated with ►) in this longer-term plan. This year, we release the final action plan for this strategic plan. In 2021, the Washington Evaluators board will prepare a new plan appropriate for the organization as it enters its 37th year.

It is appropriate to note that as the Board prepared this plan during March and April 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic arrived, forcing the Board to consider how the organization connects and supports our community at a time when meeting in person is no longer possible. For this reason, activities and events discussed in this action plan may be virtual in format rather than in-person. What matters is that we continue to offer opportunities to nurture our community of practice and build capacity for public good.

Strategic Goals of Washington Evaluators

Washington Evaluators helps develop evaluators professionally and promotes a collaborative evaluation community through a variety of activities. In order to achieve the mission of Washington Evaluators, we have four key strategic goals: strengthen the sustainability of the evaluation community; enhance evaluation relationships and interactions; support individual evaluators' professional development needs; ensure strong administration of the organization. Each of these four strategic goals is a core component of the Washington Evaluators mission, and each suggests specific potential contributions to the evaluation community in the Washington, DC region that form the basis for objectives (►) described below.

Strategic Goal #1:

Strengthen the Sustainability of the Evaluation Community

Washington Evaluators strives to strengthen the sustainability of the evaluation community, within the DC-area and nationally and recognizes this is a fundamental role of the organization. This strategic goal denotes Washington Evaluators' unique ability and position to serve as a national leader to strengthen the sustainability of evaluation. As one of the oldest professional evaluation organizations in the United States, Washington Evaluators is well-suited to provide expertise to other organizations and individuals throughout the country, but only so long as the organization is itself sustainable (see also Strategic Goal #4). Further, by geographic proximity to the nation's capitol, many leaders in evaluation policy are located in the D.C. area. This access allows
